SOLID FOUNDATIONS

iCentral is a Proudly Australian Company

The range of iCentral quality home products are brought to you by Ness Corporation, Australia's Largest designer, manufacturer and wholesaler of electronic security products.

Established in 1972, Ness remains essentially a family based company dedicated to quality products, service and most importantly a commitment to you, the ultimate customer.

Ness is probably better known for its profile and innovation in developing and manufacturing leading security products for both Australia and many export markets.

However, Ness manufactures many diverse products for many well known companies, often on an OEM basis. For example, Ness designed and has since 1998 manufactured the range of Valet and System One branded home intercom systems.

The majority of the iCentral Vacuum Systems products are manufactured for Ness in accordance with Ness' quality demands by our U.S. based family run manufacturer with an impressive track record for quality products and the hard earned experience that comes with over one million systems sold in 25 countries.

All other iCentral products are either manufactured by Ness or by long term reliable suppliers in accordance with Ness' exacting standards and requirements.

A huge variety of quality parts, tools and accessories make installation a breeze for professional installers and DIY users.
